

SUPPORT SECONDHAND ROSE PLAYERS

VIRTUAL THEATRE UNDERREPRESENTED VOICES INCLUSIVE ACCESS

Secondhand Rose Players is a Detroit-area troupe that showcases underrepresented artists.

In 2022, the company created an interactive livestreamed theatre experience that pushed the boundaries of the medium while maintaining a pandemic-safe way to perform and attend live theatre.

A team of award-winning Detroit-area artists, led by director Heather Hudson and playwright Erin Osgood, used specialized technology and live technical direction to develop a vibrant virtual playing space – and a story that, rather than being adapted to this medium, required it.

The result was a taut sci-fi adventure that redefined streaming theatre. And even before its successful run, it was clear that this was just the first part of a much larger story.

EPISODE TWO: TIGHTROPE

No one ever said saving Earth would be easy – but no one predicted this much could go wrong. Crimson, Riley, and Baskin beat catastrophe to reach Titan, but to gather planet-restoring resources, they'll need to overcome failing equipment, a malfunctioning AI, and the paranoid Chief Garza.
